VI. Special Business

- a) The last 30 minutes or so of the meeting will be reserved for hosting visiting researchers from Germany: Susanne Spindler and Sara Madjlessi-Roudi. The two are from the University of Applied Sciences, Dusseldorf, Germany, and their research project focuses on the situation of social work with refugees, asylum seekers, and other migrants. They believe Hartford is a meaningful local setting to learn from to draw broader insights into migration politics in the U.S. at large. Some of their questions include: how can solidarity be developed? How do activists and professionals cope with the migration policy, with which approaches, argumentations, cooperation?

VII. Adjournment
